Itself on the periphery of an American media empire and serious questions of cultural identity have been raised. The Italian case is further significant on account of the works.

This original theoretical section discusses fourteen consecutive communication models, the synthesis of which results in a holistic, social semiotic theory of communication. This theory is derived from the basic idea that the world is made up of signs, and as such, the variety of models to be discussed is based on four main criteria: the dimension of the signs, the reference of the signs, the function of the signs, and the signifying function of the signs. These models are then used to illustrate how semiotics can function together to analyze how culture works in the contemporary era.

Universe of the Mind
